TRAVEL BLOGGER

ABOUT ME

I have been traveling all over the country since before I could walk. As I grew older, I ended up with a degree in Hospitality and a little girl with the same travel bug. Today I work as a hotel contractor so that I'm able to spend more quality time with my family and traveling. My favorite travel activities include site seeing, snorkeling, diving and photography!

What am I Blogging?

This blog is dedicated to adventures, travel products and tips. I love sharing adventures and stories that I hope inspire others to try something new. My goal is to showcase travel for all types of people. I'm aware that not everyone can afford to fly to London or even do a road trip that is 1,000 miles away. My blog showcases the art of a staycation for the family to adult adventures in the streets of Havana.
